

Ecorazzi

August 25, 2006

Geena Davis Goes For Conflict-Free Bling-Bling

Now, let's be honest here. Perhaps Geena Davis didn't necessarily go out of her way to purchase a new diamond necklace from WhiteFlash—billed as a conflict-free diamond company—because of the values they support. They may have simply looked purdy. But, we'll give her the benefit of the doubt and applaud her choice regardless.

Davis was also spotted purchasing a Charlie Lapson handbag—considered one of the “hippest green designers in Los Angeles” by Time magazine. Lapson uses ‘mostly’ organic cotton and reconstructed fabrics in silks and satins. Clarification on ‘mostly’ should be addressed, but it's a start.